When the Women's Final Four last came to Tampa in 2015, you could count the number of teams with realistic championship hopes on one or two fingers.

As the NCAA women's basketball tournament prepares to return to Amalie Arena next month, UConn coach Geno Auriemma sees six or seven teams capable of winning it all, as his Huskies did four years ago.

Mourning in New Zealand

Chicago Tribune 18 Mar 2019 +157 more By Nick Perry and Juliet Williams

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand — A steady stream of mourners paid tribute Sunday at a makeshift memorial to the 50 people slain by a gunman at two mosques in Christchurch.

Hundreds of flowers were piled up amid candles, balloons and notes of grief and love outside the Al Noor mosque. As a light rain fell, people clutched each other and wept quietly.

"We wish we knew your name to write upon your heart. We wish we knew your favorite song, what makes you smile, what makes you cry," read one of the tributes, which contained cutout paper hearts under a nearby tree. "We made a heart for you. 50 hearts for 50 lives."

Two days after Friday's attack, New Zealand's deadliest shooting in modern history, relatives were still waiting for authorities to release the bodies. Islamic law calls for bodies to be cleansed and buried as soon as possible after death, usually within 24 hours.

Supporters arrived from across the country to help with the burials in Christchurch and authorities sent in backhoes to dig graves at a site that was newly fenced off and blocked from view with white netting.

NEW ZEALAND PM VOWS TOUGHER GUN LAWS WITHIN DAYS

The Globe and Mail (Ottawa/Quebec Edition) 19 Mar 2019 +108 more CHARLOTTE GREENFIELD TOM WESTBROOK CHRISTCHURCH, NEW ZEALAND

A child adds a toy to tributes across the street from the Al Noor mosque, one of two houses of worship that were attacked Friday by a gunman who killed 50 and injured dozens.

As country mourns, Jacinda Ardern says cabinet has reached decisions in principle to reform legislation after

'horrific act of terrorism'

New Zealand Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern said on Monday she would announce new gun laws within days, after a lone gunman killed 50 people in mass shootings at two mosques in the city of Christchurch.

Australian Brenton Tarrant, 28, a white supremacist, was charged with murder on Saturday. Mr. Tarrant was remanded without a plea and is due back in court on April 5 where police said he was likely to face more charges.

"Within 10 days of this horrific act of terrorism we will have announced reforms which will, I believe, make our community safer," Ms. Ardern told a news conference after her cabinet reached in-principle decisions on gun reform laws in the wake of New Zealand's worst mass shooting. In addition to the 50 killed, dozens were wounded at two mosques in the South Island city during Friday prayers.

The owner of gun shop Gun City, David Tipple, said the suspected gunman had legally bought four weapons and ammunition online from it between December, 2017, and March, 2018, but it did not sell him the high-powered weapon used in the massacre.

"The MSSA, military-style automatic, reportedly used by the alleged gunman was not purchased from Gun City. Gun City did not sell him an MSSA, only A-category firearms," Mr. Tipple told a news conference.

Under New Zealand gun laws, A-category weapons can be semi-automatic, but limited to seven shots. Livestreamed video of a gunman in one of the mosques showed a semi-automatic weapon with a large magazine.

Mr. Tipple said he supported Ms. Ardern's decision to reform gun laws as the Christchurch shootings had raised legitimate concerns.

Ms. Ardern did not give details on new laws, but has said she supports a ban on semi-automatic weapons after the Christchurch shootings.

Australia introduced some of the world's toughest gun laws after its worst mass killing, the 1996 Port Arthur massacre in which a lone gunman killed 35 people using a semi-automatic AR-15 – the same weapon used in the Christchurch massacre.

Australia banned semi-automatic weapons, launched a gun amnesty in which tens of thousands of weapons were handed in and made it much tougher to own them.

Ms. Ardern encouraged gun owners who were thinking of surrendering their weapons to do so.

"The clear lesson from history around the world is that to make our community safer, the time to act is now," she said.

"I strongly believe that the vast majority of gun owners in New Zealand will agree with the sentiment that change needs to occur."

New Zealand's top online marketplace Trade Me said it was halting the sale of semi-automatic weapons in the wake of Friday's attack.

New Zealand, a country of only five million people, has an estimated 1.5 million firearms.

Radio New Zealand said in a report based on police data secured through an Official Information Act request, that more than 99 per cent of people who applied for a firearm licence in 2017 were successful.

A New Zealand standard A-category firearm licence is issued after a police and background check. Only firearm owners are licensed, not Men carry a coffin in Zimbabwe days after Cyclone Idai ripped across the land. The storm tore up 90 percent of the Indian Ocean port city of Beira, Mozambique, late Thursday and moved inland to Zimbabwe and Malawi. The death toll and destruction levels remain unclear.

JOHANNESBURG — More than 1,000 people were feared dead in Mozambique four days after a cyclone slammed into the country, submerging villages and leaving bodies in the floodwaters, President Filipe Nyusi said.

"It is a real disaster of great proportions," Nyusi said.

Cyclone Idai could prove to be the deadliest storm in generations to hit the impoverished southeast African country of 30 million people.

Great location and easy to find. Comfy bed and very clean. The staff were very helpful. My iPod didn't work but it was sorted straight away. I was able to leave my bags for the day while I explored the area after checkout. Lovely social space to sit in. Wish I could have stayed longer.
A little noisy at night with people moving around. It was a little pricy and more expensive than its branch in Kyoto which I thought was a little nicer.
